How much time per month may be involved with a Director's role?

Hard to assess in a new company situation as setting up something new can take quite a lot of time at the start, to create momentum and get to know each other. Team can agree frequency of meetings after that - maybe 2-3 hours per month as an estimate?

How much time per month may be involved with a key role?

Communications and social media roles can easily take up a few days a month but can be alternated with a role-share colleague. Editing and curating articles have long lead times but also media deadlines.

Other roles will have variable time commitments each month and can be scheduled in with your own work commitments. If you have interest in a volunteer role do let us know asap:
